The 17th May 1887.—The following orders of the Board of Trade are published for general information.

COLMAN MACAULAY,
Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

Consecutive office No. 320—Departmental 1073—Surveyors 96.

Board of Trade, Marine Department, February 1887.

INSTRUCTIONS TO SURVEYORS.

Distress Signals.

THE Board of Trade are advised that Pyrotechnic Signals of Distress, which have been kept for a lengthened period, are liable to seriously deteriorate in quality, and are consequently not to be relied on when required for use. The Surveyors are therefore informed that in future no Pyrotechnic Signals of Distress, which are more than two years old, are to be passed for use on board Passenger and Emigrant ships. In the case of Pyrotechnic Signals which are less than twelve months old, the Surveyors should test by firing at least one sample of each description of signal supplied, but of signals between one and two years old double this number should be fired.

Any signals showing signs of dampness, careless manufacture, or unusual wear and tear should be regarded with suspicion, and should be dealt with in such a way as the Surveyor may think most expedient.

To enable the Surveyors to carry the foregoing regulations into effect, all Pyrotechnic Signals must in future be marked with the date of manufacture. The marking must be distinct, and must not be effected by means of an adhesive label. The requirements respecting the marking of signals will come into force on the 1st May 1887, and ship-owners and signal-makers should at once be informed that, on and after that date, no new Pyrotechnic Signals will be accepted unless this regulation is complied with, and that, on or before the 1st of May 1888, all the Pyrotechnic Signals which may have been already supplied must be replaced by new ones bearing the date of manufacture.

Copies of this circular should be distributed among the owners of Passenger and Emigrant ships, and the makers of Pyrotechnic Distress Signals in the different districts.

With reference to Holmes' Signals, Surveyors are informed that these signals, when kept on the rail ready for use, or otherwise exposed to the action of the weather, very quickly deteriorate, and are not to be relied on for more than 12 months.

This also applies to Holmes' Signals that have been kept in damp lockers, wheel-houses, or other places where they are exposed to moisture.

On the other hand, when efficiently taken care of, they have been known to remain good for a number of years. Surveyors should therefore examine them carefully. They should be marked with the date of manufacture in the same way as other Pyrotechnic signals, but must be dealt with as the circumstance of each case requires.
